

Department of Addictions and Rehabilitation Studies
College of Allied Health Sciences

Doctoral Student Stipends and Financial Assistance Package
PhD in Counselor Preparation and Research

Students enrolled full time in the Ph.D. program in Counselor Preparation and Research are eligible to compete for Research Scholar Awards. Awards are made based on availability and a competitive process. These financial awards include:

1. Stipends, on average, of $2000 per month. This is for 20 hours per week of duties supporting the department.
2. Full in-state or out-of-state tuition scholarships. Please note that (a) student fees of approximately $1800 per semester will be the responsibility of the student, (b) scholarships cover Fall and Spring semesters only, and (c) out-of-state students are expected to establish in-state residency by the start of their second year.
3. Health insurance coverage, paid by the university, for doctoral students registered as full-time students and receiving an assistantship stipend.

Recipients of these awards are not permitted to hold other jobs within or outside the university.

For additional information regarding the program or financial package, contact the program director Dr. Paul Toriello (toriellop@ecu.edu).
